Senate leary of proposed BOG change

By MARY HOLLAND
Staff writer

Faculty senators interviewed Monday remain leary of a proposal to change the executive structure of the Board of Governors system.

The senate Tuesday will discuss the impact of a change which will make the five BOG presidents responsible to a chancellor. Under the current system, the presidents report only to the board.

Faculty senator Ken Sutton said the senate wrote a letter to the BOG stating that the senate opposes the change if it would reduce the autonomy of the individual campuses.

"We didn't outright oppose it," Sutton said. However, he said senate members are concerned about the potential effects of the change.

Sutton said if the change took power away from the local campuses, "it could be a very tragic thing."

"What if the president of this university had to make all requests through the chancellor and could not speak directly to the board?" Sutton asked.

The senate's concern was echoed by Eastern President Stanely Rives last week. Although Rives said he is not absolutely opposed to the change, he is concerned that presidents maintain responsibility for day-to-day university operations.

Sutton said his concern lies in the potential impact of the proposal rather than its immediate framework.

"I'm not so disturbed about the way they're going to do it right now. It's only the structure that bothers me because they are adding another level of administration," he said.

Faculty senator Richard Goodrick agreed that the senate is speculating as to "what might be and what might not be."

"The senate was basically responding to what might happen," he said. "They don't want to see power shift from the campuses to a centralized source."

Currently, an executive director heads the BOG system. Under the proposed change, the chancellor would replace the executive director as chief executive officer of the board.

According to amendments to the BOG bylaws, the chancellor will be responsible for coordinating and managing all system-wide matters, while presidents maintain "primary responsibility" for the management of the individual universities.

The board's current executive director, Tom Layzell, said he believes a chancellor would provide a more unified and cohesive voice in the General Assembly.

But faculty senators said they don't believe a title change will give the system any more leverage.

"It's going to be the same representation whether you call him executive director or (See SENATE, page 9)

Faculty members discuss their role concerning Foundation investments

By AMY ZURAWSKI
Campus editor

Several Eastern instructors said the faculty should have a voice in how the Eastern Illinois University Foundation invests its money.

Ron Wallace, Geology/Geography Department chairman, said the faculty should be informed to help give input into how the Foundation invests money.

"I would advocate an education program for university faculty and staff members to inform them of exactly what the Foundation is doing," he said. "It would be quite helpful in aiding faculty members in their decisions about apartheid investments."

The Foundation, funded by private donations, recently renewed financial interests in apartheid South Africa by continuing its contract with Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago.

Harris has control of the Foundation's $1.5 million investment portfolio which includes shares in U.S. companies in apartheid South Africa.

Controversy arose in May when it was learned that Harris has more than $180,000 of the Foundation's funds invested in 10 companies with branches in South Africa.

Political science instructor Hugh Brazil said, "I think faculty members should be able to have a decision regarding Foundation investment."

However, he said the Foundation might be more likely to listen to faculty members if they were to make contributions to the Foundation.

"It might be good to make a contribution (to the Foundation) (See FACULTY, page 8)

Akins misses appointment deadline

By JULIE ZOOK
Government editor

Student Body President Floyd Akins failed to make the Friday deadline for board appointments and is still trying to fill 10 positions on various boards.

Some student/faculty boards, like the Council on Academic Affairs, have not been able to meet because all the board appointments have not been made.

Akins said he is having trouble making appointments "because certain boards are hard to fill."

For example, Akins said five seats on the Sports and Recreation Board need to be filled, but no one has applied. In addition, one application has been filed for two CAA vacant seats.

Akins must chose from five applicants to fill two seats on the Performing and Visual Arts Board. Another appointment must also be made to the Judicial Board.

The Friday deadline was set by the student government executive officers, Akins said, explaining the deadline was created to "make us work to meet the deadline."

Akins said he will attempt to fill the vacant positions by Tuesday's meeting of Legislative Leadership, which must approve the appointments before they go to the Student Senate for final approval.

Akins said he has made 25 appointments in the last two weeks. Some of the 25 appointments were approved at Wednesday's senate meeting.

FarmAid helps area businesses

CHAMPAIGN—The blockbuster FarmAid concert is expected to raise millions of dollars for the nation's financially strapped farmers—and it's not likely to do badly by local businesses, either.

Tourism officials hope to make the most of the opportunity presented by the all-day concert Sept. 22 at the University of Illinois football stadium.

"Six months from now, we want to say to a convention planner, 'Hey, you want to bring 2,000 people to town? We handled FarmAid,'" said Judy Kaufman of the Champaign-Urbana Visitors and Convention Bureau.

Employees of Stan's Sportsworld probably won't make it to the concert. They'll be busy printing the FarmAid logo on as many as 24,000 T-shirts to be sold at the stadium by a California company, says Cam Wallace, the store's production manager.

Entrepreneurs and farm-related businesses also have arranged for FarmAid slogans on shirts and other articles.

State options land for auto plant

CHICAGO—The state paid about $100,000 to option 1,800 acres of land in central Illinois in an effort to lure a $500 million Mitsubishi Motors Corp. automobile plant, a state official said Monday.

Michael Woelffer, director of the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, said that in July the state optioned four sites—three in Bloomington-Normal area and one in Morton—ranging from 300 to 700 acres each.

"We are risking the $100,000," said Woelffer, because the state cannot recover the money if Mitsubishi locates the plant in one of the three other states under consideration. Those states are Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

Woelffer said that even if the plant, which would employ about 2,500 people, is located in Illinois, the state would not be reimbursed the $100,000.

Institute buys portraits of killers

CHICAGO—The Art Institute of Chicago has bought portraits of three murderers, including a stark painting of death row inmate John Wayne Gacy, convicted of the sex-related slayings of 33 young boys and men.

The paintings by local artist Linda Lee won't go on display before 1988, if ever, the institute's associate curator for 20th century paintings and sculpture, Neal Benezra, said Monday.

Benezra said the museum stored most of its contemporary art during construction of an addition, to be finished in early 1988. When the work is complete, institute officials will decide whether to display the portraits.

Asked about the possibility viewers might be upset by them, Benezra said:

"To tell you the truth, we haven't given this a lot of thought. If we do decide to hang these pictures, it would be no statement in any way of this institution's feelings about mass murderers, the death penalty or anything else."

Britain retaliates against Soviets; expels six more accused of spying

LONDON (AP)—Britain ordered six more Soviets out of the country Monday in an escalating series of expulsions of purported spies which has plunged Anglo-Soviet relations to one of the lowest points since World War II.

The government accused two Soviet diplomats, two embassy clerks, a trade representative and a journalist of spying and ordered them to leave Britain by Oct. 7. Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe said the move was designed "to uphold Britain's security."

The government also cut the permitted level of Soviet official personnel in Britain from 211 to 205.

The Soviet Embassy in London quickly accused the Britain in a statement of a "provocative and vindictive action of an unfriendly nature" and said it was "totally unjustified on any grounds whatsoever."

It added that "the entire responsibility for the consequences of this action rest with the British side."

Britain last Thursday ordered 25 Russians to leave Britain by Oct. 3, saying they were named as spies by Oleg A. Gordievski, head of the KGB spy network for Britain who defected and was granted asylum.

Britain warned against retaliation, but on Saturday the Russians expelled 25 Britons, accusing them of spying.

In throwing out six more Soviets Monday, the Foreign Office called the Soviet reprisal "an unwarranted victimization of innocent people, which the British government was not prepared to accept."

The statements by both sides carried ominous overtones of relations getting worse on a broader scale. The Foreign Office said Moscow's action "could not but set back (the) process" of improving ties. The Soviet Embassy replied that "it is hard to discern the professed desire of the British side for a better relations."

Reagan, Nixon confer on summit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan said Monday he has spoken frequently to former President Nixon in preparing for his November summer meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Reagan said he agreed with Nixon's assessment that "we want peace; the Soviet Union needs peace."

During a question-and-answer session with regional editors and broadcasters invited to the White House for briefings by top officials, Reagan also said U.S. ally Honduras "behaved nobly and was well within their rights" in launching an air strike Friday against a Nicaraguan artillery battery.

Honduras said Nicaraguan forces were firing mortars across the border and had killed one Honduran and wounded eight in the latest of numerous border incidents between the two countries. Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega called it an unprovoked attack by Honduran war planes.

Reagan was asked whether, in getting ready for the summit in Geneva on Nov. 19—20, he has taken or sought the advice of Nixon, a Republican predecessor.

"I have frequently talked to President Nixon," Reagan replied. "He had great experience and is most knowledgeable on international affairs."

Chinese see government change

PEKING (AP)—Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping swept 131 senior Communist Party officials from power Monday to make way for younger men and ensure the success of his economic and political reforms.

He also ended the life-tenure system that prompted power struggles between stubborn, elderly leaders which have plagued China since the communists took power in 1949. Deng himself was a victim when Chairman Mao Tse-tung dismissed him as a "capitalist roader" during the 1966—67 Cultural Revolution.

Official announcements said all 131 officials submitted voluntary resignations, including 64 full and alternate members of the powerful 344—delegate Central Committee. Among those were 10 of the 24 Politburo members.

The resignations came at the fourth full session of the 12th Central Committee in Peking. Deng and his proteges, party chief Hu Yaobang and Premier Zhao Ziyang, had said earlier that major personnel changes would be made at a series of party meetings this month.

Deng himself is 81, but shows no sign of fatigue. He is the nation's paramount leader, head of the Central Advisory Commission and Central Military Commission.

Student teachers face relocating for studies

By LARRY SMITH
Staff writer

For Eastern's student teachers, the Charleston teachers strike presents a new challenge: Where will they be teaching in the days to come?

"We are in the throes of reassigning student teachers," Education Department Chairman Francis Summers said.

The department will have to move some of the student teachers, Summers said, with decisions on where to be announced at a Wednesday meeting. "We have a variety of options we could do," he said.

"We can move them all if we have to," Summers said. He also said that they will try to move student teachers to schools within 25 to 35 miles of Charleston.

The strike will have no effect on their grades, Summers said, and he added that the fact they started a week before Eastern's fall semester gives them leeway during the strike. "The bottom line is we're going to get the students through," Summers said.

Summers added that he did not want the students to worry. "We're going to take care of them."

In the meantime, student teachers said they are taking a wait-and-see attitude while the four-day-old strike runs on.

Student teacher Joe Spevacek said he had not spoken to his coordinator yet but the situation does not look good. "I'm up in the air right now about where I'm going," he added. "I'm hoping that I stay around the Charleston area."

But student teacher Debbie Gerdes said that the move would be hard for her. "I am a single parent and I can't pull my child out of school to move to another town. I also work," she said.

For better or worse, Spevacek said he was supportive of the teachers and that the trend for upgrading their salaries is overdue but here to stay.

Teachers are seeking a 26 percent payhike over two years in their endeavor. Negotiations broke off Sunday night without a settlement and without exchanging any formal proposals, members on both sides of the talks said.

Blood drive committee holds membership drive

An informational meeting for volunteers interested in working for the Fall Blood Drive will be conducted at 3:30 Tuesday in the Union addition Charleston-Mattoon Room.

Jeanne Wilson, a representative from the Red Cross in St. Louis, will speak "about blood and when it goes to St. Louis how it is used," General Chairman Mary Purcell said.

Margaret Lowell, co-chair of the Coles County Chapter of the Red Cross, will "explain to students what happens in a donor room," said Walter Lowell, co-chair and dean of health, recreation and physical education.

"We need all the help we can get," Purcell said. "No one gets turned away. There's always something that someone can do."

T-shirts with the theme "We Are The World, We Are The Blood Donors," on them will also be available for $3, Purcell said.

UB dares audience to keep stiff upper lip during show

"We Can Make You Laugh," a comedy game show sponsored by the University Board, will be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Grand Ballroom.

"It's the hottest new show to hit the college circuit," Special Events coordinator Kim Hagen said.

Audience members will be drawn to go up on stage. If the comedians cannot make them laugh in six minutes, the person will receive $25 and a "We Can Make You Laugh" T-shirt, Hagen said.

The show is "all fair and square," Hagen said. University Board members have talked to people who have been at the show, and the money was actually given out, she said.

Contestants will be selected by a random drawing. Those attending will turn their name in as they enter the show.

Judges, selected from the UB Special Events Committee, will determine if the contestants laugh or not, she said.

"We're expecting a big crowd," Hagen said. The three comedians, Joe Dunckel, Danny "The Wild Man" Ballard and Chas, will be doing "teasers" in Taylor and Thomas Food Services between 5 and 6 p.m., Hagen said.

Admission is $1 for Eastern students with an I.D. or $1.50 for general admission.

Could yachts bring town its tourism boom?

The topic is not new but it still bears such great ramifications that it requires a continuous look.

To fill everyone in, Charleston Mayor Murray Choate announced in late August what came of a paid trip in the summer to Taiwan. Choate's good news was that a yacht-building factory might be shipped into Charleston.

Editorial

Looking to the future, we can ask ourselves: What great shakeup will the local economy face? How will it affect the image of the city? How will Charleston residents look at a pleasure boat industry floating among corn stalks?

The possibility of new industry in Charleston is certainly serious business. But yachts? Why does a Taiwanese businessman seriously consider Charleston the perfect home away from home for his business?

Maybe a few residents near Lake Charleston or Lake Shelbyville could use these classic status symbols. Maybe the words "made in Charleston" will become a household phrase as the wealthy begin pouring into Charleston to shop for their luxury crafts? Then Charleston could consider making tourism its greatest industry, thereby justifying a 5 percent "tourism tax" charged on hotel/motel stays here.

Area carpenters could move into "yacht engineering" careers. A store on the square could sell life jackets, boat shoes and other boating novelties. Forests of trees for the supply of teak wood might emerge.

But what is in the future for Eastern could be equally startling. Will a yachting department open up and replace the health department's Human Sexuality course? Should the College of Business have a course in yacht production management? And will instructors begin asking for yachts in their pension plans?

Is the arrival of a yacht factory the boat Charleston has been waiting on or is it all just folly as we perceive? No one really knows. And if they do know, they are not saying.

A 'Day of Peace'

Editor:

Tuesday has been proclaimed by the United Nations to be a Day of Peace worldwide. The members of the Baha'i Faith urge everyone to join with them in supporting the U.N. in promoting universal peace on this day.

Peace cannot be limited to ending war. The pattern of suspicion and hatred between nations must end. For this reason peace does not begin with governments, but with individuals. Baha'is believe that humanity must abandon old patterns of behavior which cause conflicts and disorder. Racism, nationalism, poverty and religious strife impede human progress.

Nuclear war is not the inevitable fate of the world. Unity is the alternative. "The well-being of mankind, its peace and security, are unattainable unless unity is firmly established," according to Baha'u'llah, prophet founder of the Baha'i Faith.

Celebrate this Day of Peace in your own fashion, but do whatever you can, for the alternatives to world peace have been, and will forever be, unthinkable. Remember on this day and every day that "The earth is but one country, and mankind its citizens," Baha'u'llah says.

A 'change of pace'

Editor:

The Subway Nightclub, a non-alcoholic pub in the Union, is full of life and entertainment for all.

So far, the Subway has had a disc jockey, live band, comedian, special nights with complimentary food and dancing for everyone. There's also an abundance of entertainment on its way.

As a senior, and your average bar hopper, I've had fun every time I've gone to the Subway. It's a nice change of pace, a new atmosphere and a pretty wild crowd.

The Union staff members, University Board and other individuals who have dedicated themselves to the creation of the Subway should be commended for a fantastic job.

Keep up the good work.

Troupe gets spirits going without a tab

As you poor, sainted folks who follow this column on a weekly basis are aware, I can't drink for a few months due to a bizzare bout with illness. As the result of this unfortunate circumstance, I found myself in an endless search of non-alcoholic entertainment.

Well, last week I found the perfect form of such pleasure. It was the performance by the touring troupe from the Chicago-based Second City comedy crew.

Now, maybe you're all thinking, "Hey, Schneidman, that was last week. We already read a review of the show. What are you trying to do? Beat it to the ground?"

Well, I should hope not. All I'm trying to do is give a little credit where it's due, and thank the fine folks on the University Board for making this unwillingly reformed alcoholic's life a bit merrier.

Actually, I didn't expect much from the show. I figured nothing that was free and didn't involve alcohol could be very good.

In fact, as my friend and I sat on the little plastic orange chairs in the University Grand Ballroom we made a pact that if we didn't like the performance and weren't laughing within the first 10 minutes we were out of there.

But surprise, surprise. We found ourselves laughing our feeble little heads off in a matter of minutes and couldn't have been lifted from our seats by Mr. T himself.

When intermission rolled around, I found that I wasn't the only one who enjoyed the performance. For a while I thought that perhaps I was in such desperate need of fun that even a rerun of Leave It To Beaver would have had me rolling on the floor in hysterics.

What's the point?

Diane Schneidman

However, most people had big grins on their faces as they recapped a routine for their companions, a strange practice considering their friends had seen the same show. Yes, I know that Eastern finally had been blessed with free fun.

By the end of the show, I had been so excited that I didn't care if I stopped for a drink at one of the taverns or not. My desire for entertainment had been satiated, indeed. And it cost me a lot less than a pitcher or two of brew.

And I wasn't the only merry observer. The audience gave the troupe a standing ovation—quite a rare sight.

I also learned something from this experience. I discovered that you don't have to be drunk in Charleston to have a good time. I learned that money doesn't buy happiness. I found out that there are enough chairs to fill the Grand Ballroom and people don't need to lay on top of each other to watch a movie.

Yes, the UB deserves a pat on the back. Somehow, the members of this group found a way to give the people what they want at a price that can't be beat.

Now we can all be happy.

—Diane Schneidman is a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News and editorial director for The Warbler.

Children hit by AIDS: Loneliness marks life

The Associated Press

Mothers abandon them. Schools reject them. Some doctors touch them only with rubber gloves.

They are children with AIDS—young victims of an incurable disease that savages their bodies, steals their minds and stunts their growth. Before it kills them, it breaks the hearts of those who love them.

These children are outcasts. Most aren't old enough to understand their disease. But for those who do, life moves to the dull beat of rejection and loneliness.

Thirteen-year-old Ryan White has been barred from his Indiana school. He sits alone in his bedroom, listening to his teachers and classmates by phone.

Matthew Kozup, 2½, isn't allowed to play with other children at his Virginia home. His mother hugs him, but won't kiss him. His older sister, Sarah, isn't even allowed to touch him.

And Dwight Burk has endured much of the 17 months of his painful life in a sterile hospital room in Pennsylvania.

"No one could dream for a day how bad it is," said Jeanne White, mother of Ryan White, who became ill during treatment for hemophilia.

"It's been a disaster for my family," said Susan Kozup, whose son contracted AIDS through contaminated blood. He was born too early, weighing less than 3 pounds, and the blood was meant to give him life.

"I would never want this to happen to someone else," Kozup added. "I have so much anger in me, I could just scream."

The national Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta has tallied 165 cases of AIDS among American children under 13, although doctors estimate hundreds more probably have milder forms of the disease and others will develop it.

"We're just seeing the tip of the iceberg," said Dr. Andrew Urbach, a pediatrician at Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh who is treating Dwight Burk.

While AIDS in adults often is linked to chosen lifestyles, such as homosexuality or drug abuse, children contract AIDS passively. Most get AIDS from an infected parent. Others, such as hemophiliacs, ironically get the fatal disease while receiving life-saving treatment.

Virus of Fear: AIDS

For children with AIDS, there often is little support beyond loving families and friends, if they have them.

These children "are a real disenfranchised group," said Roger Cunningham, general manager of the AIDS Medical Foundation in New York.

Some drug addict mothers have left their babies in hospitals and never returned, Cunningham said. In New York, he noted, more than a dozen infected children have no homes.

A special day care and health center is being established for AIDS youngsters and their families at the Albert Einstein Medical Hospital in New York.

AIDS was first identified among homosexuals, and now gay men sometimes volunteer to care for unwanted, dying youngsters.

Slightly more than one AIDS victim in 100 is 13 or younger, and 80 percent to 90 percent of these are under 5, the CDC says. Sixty-one teen-agers are known to have AIDS.

Seven of every 10 reported pediatric cases involve children of AIDS victims or of parents described by health officials as being at increased risk of contracting AIDS, such as hemophiliacs and drug abusers.

Nearly 70 percent of AIDS children have died. That figure is higher than the 50 percent overall mortality rate, but health officials say that probably just reflects earlier detection among adults.

Children with AIDS often don't grow or mature. It's called "failure to thrive" and is comparable to weight loss in adults with the disease, said Dr. Brian Novick, assistant clinical professor of pediatrics at Albert Einstein.

Some children also won't walk or talk—and if they do, they may come to a point where they can't anymore.

AIDS itself does not usually kill the victim. Sufferers, their immune systems destroyed, instead become vulnerable to infections and cancers.

Retiring faculty conduct meeting

By AMY ZURAWSKI
Campus editor

The outlook for retirement legislation in 1986 and opportunities and strategies for personal investment will be topics Wednesday of the fall membership meeting of Eastern's Annuitants Association.

Ken Hessler, public relations committee chairman, said the meeting, scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Effingham Room of the Union, will be previewed by a coffee and conversation session scheduled for 9:30 a.m.

The meeting, which is open to all Eastern and Lakeland Community College employees planning to retire in the next several years, features business instructor Thomas Elliot.

Elliot will present "Opportunities and Strategies for Investing" at 12:45 p.m., Hessler said.

He said Sen. Max Coffey, Rep. Mike Weaver, Eastern President Stanley Rives, Vivian Ehardt, president of the Coles County retired teachers association, and Brad Barber, executive director of the state universities annuitants association, will make presentations during the morning session.

Hessler said the meeting is "basically to let retiring faculty members know that there is an organization that is interested in their retirement."

EIUAA is principally composed of Eastern faculty, staff, retirees and their spouses.

Hessler said EIUAA has set a membership goal for 1985-86 of 75 percent of the 435 eligible group membership. Last year, he said the group had 296 paid members, 73 percent of the number eligible.

Troops and warplanes hit SWAPO forces in Angola

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Troops and warplanes swept into southern Angola on Monday to strike South-West African guerrillas the military said were planning attacks on towns and military bases in the territory.

Gen. Constand Viljoen, the armed forces commander, said Angola's Marxist government was informed of the strike against guerrillas of the South-West Africa People's Organization and warned "not to interfere." It was the second strike in 10 weeks inside Angola, where about 25,000 Cuban troops are based.

Viljoen gave no indication of the size of the force, its targets or how deeply it penetrated. Southern Angola is the base area of SWAPO guerillas fighting for the independence of South-West Africa, a mineral-rich territory also known as Namibia that South Africa has controlled since World War I.

"One followup can lead to another. . . Hopefully it (the strike) will be over within a week," Lt. Gen. Ian Gleason the army chief of staff, said Monday night on the government-controlled television.

Racial unrest persisted in South Africa. Hundreds of high school students in Johannesburg's huge black township of Soweto went on a rampage because of rumors that black leader Nelson Mandela had died in jail. Mandela's wife said the rumors were false.

Witnesses at Grootfontein, 157 miles south of Angola and South Africa's main Namibian air base, said air force Mirage jets took off at various times during the day.

Viljoen said reconnaissance and intelligence-gathering operations established that guerrillas planned long-range bombardments of military bases and attacks on big towns and residential areas in the northern part of the disputed territory.

SWAPO has not been known to have long-range artillery in its battle for Namibia, which South Africa governs under a League of Nations mandate abrogated by the U.N. General Assembly in 1966.

Gleason said troops were pursuing the guerrillas' 8th Battalion, which he estimated at 400-800 men and said was "well-dispersed" in southern Angola. He said it was the unit tht was to have made the attacks.

After the last crossborder strike early in July, Viljoen said his forces killed 57 guerrillas and lost one man in a two-day operation. The July strike was the first since South Africa completed a negotiated withdrawal of its forces, a year late, from southern Angola.

SWAPO guerrillas have fought a 19-year guerrilla war for Namibia that has killed nearly 10,000 guerrillas and 566 South African troops, by South Africa's official count.

The white-minority government has ignored U.N. demands for a cease-fire and independence for the territory. About 1 million people live in Namibia, 90 percent of them black or of mixed race.

In Soweto, students streamed from Orlando High School and stoned vehicles in response to the rumors about Mandela, witnesses reported. Three armored vehicles moved up to the school, firing tear gas and rubber bullets to disperse the students.

U.S. trade deficit climbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's broadest measure of foreign trade soared to a near-record $31.8 billion deficit from April through June, pushing the United States into the status of a net debtor for the first time in 71 years, the government said Monday.

Simply put, that means Americans now owe more to foreigners than foreigners owe to Americans—a position the country has not been in since 1914.

The Commerce Department report said the $31.8 billion deficit in the current account during the second quarter was 4.9 percent higher than the $30.3 billion current account deficit incurred during the first three months of the year.

The current account measures not only trade in merchandise but also in services, mainly investments flowing between the United States and other countries.

The report showed that foreign assets in the United States grew by $39.5 billion during the first six months of the year while U.S. investment abroad was growing by only $3.2 billion.

That would mean a deterioration in the country's investment position of $36.3 billion during the first six months of the year—enough to wipe out the $28.2 billion investment surplus hld by the United States as the year began.

By the end of 1985, economists predict the country could be in debt to foreigners by as much as $100 billion, making the United States the world's largest debtor country, substantially ahead of the previous leaders, Brazil and Mexico.

with the stipulation that it not be used in connection with South African apartheid government," he said.

But Brazil said it would be difficult to make investments because of the ethical questions posed "that don't have easy answers. It's a complex situation."

Sociology instructor Ron Wohlstein said he believes "it is a wise idea for all faculty members to get more involved in the university's investment affairs—especially in concern with apartheid."

"Our (faculty) opinion can make a difference if we are more active," he said.

However, History Department Chairman Robert Hennings said he does not believe faculty opinion can have a direct influence on the Foundation's investments.

"There is a right to express our opinions," he said. "But, we have no right to assume that it would make a difference."

However, Hennings said he would not support a group designed to seek the opinions of faculty members concerning Foundation investments.

"Faculty opinion does not need that kind of framework," he said. "Passing a petition would work just as well."

Psychology Department Chairman Paul Panek declined to comment.

In Monday's edition of The Daily Eastern News, Physics instructor John Gardner said he would like to have the money he contributed to a scholarship fund returned because he was under the impression that the funds were invested in local banks, "not in repressive countries."

University Relations Director Daniel Thornburgh said Gardner's money could not be returned to him because "once you give it away, the IRS (International Revenue Service) won't let you have it back."

He said some money is invested in local banks but, in order for an individual to say where his money is invested, he must create his own fund with a minimum donation of $2,500.

Gardner could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

Reagan's football coach still leads winners at 90

EUREKA (AP)—At 90, the man who coached Eureka College's most famous graduate and football player—Ronald Reagan—is still on the job and has absolutely no qualms about the president's own age—74.

Ralph McKinzie, who coaches receivers on Eureka's football team, said he voted for Reagan and would again if he could.

But McKinzie said Reagan never showed any signs as a youth of being presidential material. "I thought all the time he'd just be a radio announcer," McKinzie said. "I have never dreamed of him going into politics."

McKinzie described Reagan—an Illinois native who was a radio announcer before becoming an actor then politician—as nothing more than a "plugger" as a football guard in the early 1930s.

"He was never all-conference or anything like that," McKinzie said. "He was just dedicated to his work, and he cooperated well with me."

As for whether Reagan is a better president than a football player, McKinzie said: "He's doing a pretty good job in both of them. . . I think he's been very dedicated."

Of Reagan's age, McKinzie said, "People take too much for granted about old people."

McKinzie said Reagan generally calls him on his birthday. "He wishes me a happy birthday."

During one of Reagan's visits to Eureka, McKinzie said he asked Reagan whether he should call him "Mr. President" or "Dutch" — Reagan's college nickname.

"He said. . . 'Dutch is all right,'" McKinzie recalled. "He's very friendly. He's very common."

Despite suffering from Parkinson's disease, McKenzie attends practice three days weekly and is on the sidelines at almost every home game.

His physical condition makes it difficult for him to move easily.

"My heart is willing, but my legs are weary," he said.

Over the years, McKinzie has gained respect from those he's encountered.

"He can always tell you what you're doing wrong," said senior running back Terry Aldridge. "We definitely listen to him. He's seen more football games than we'll ever see, and he's coached in most of them. We have a tremendous amount of respect for him."

"You can tell which guys he started working with a couple of years ago," said Eureka Coach Warner McCollum. "They have the best body turn of anybody (on the team) when they catch the ball. He still knows the fundamentals very well."

In his more than 70 years in athletics, McKinzie has been a player, a head coach, a trainer and an assistant coach.

Chancellor," Goodrick said.

Although Rives said he believes Layzell will be named chancellor, Layzell has refused to speculate as to whether his title will change from executive director to chancellor, saying, "That's up to the board."

Senate member Lewis Coon expressed concern about Layzell's qualifications for becoming chancellor.

"Without the faculty knowing considerably more about him, he is not qualified to serve," Coon said. "We don't know enough about him as an individual."

Despite concerns expressed by senators, the BOG change has received the endorsement of the University Professionals of Illinois.

Chapter President Don Dolton said the union endorsed the change in the belief that it would enable the BOG system to compete more effectively with other state university systems.

"I think it would be very difficult for the board to compete as well without a chancellor," he said.

Dolton said a chancellor will be able to speak with absolute authority concerning system-wide needs, while an executive director is not able to speak for the individual presidents.

"A chancellor would be able to speak with authority at all times," Dolton said.

But Dolton added the faculty has fears as to "what it's all going to mean." For example, Dolton said, some people at Eastern fear that faculty could be laid off at other universities and placed at Eastern.

But Dolton said he believes collective bargaining regulations would prevent that from happening.

"I believe that's a groundless fear," he said.

Much of the concern about the proposal, Dolton said, stems from the perception that Eastern would be better off if it severed its connection with the BOG.

"Eastern faculty have felt for a long time that by being in the BOG system, they were not getting the kinds of things they felt they deserved," Dolton said. "They feel this is the case because Eastern is in the BOG system."

Goodrick supported Dolton's contention, saying, "I would like to see Eastern have it's own board."

Spikers hoping to surprise nationally-ranked Illinois

by DAN VERDUN
Assistant sports editor

Eastern's volleyball team is hoping to put the first dent in the armor of the nationally-ranked University of Illinois this season in Tuesday's match in Champaign.

The Fighting Illini enter the 7:30 a.m. match at Kenney Gym with an unblemished 11-0 record and listed as a Top 20-Honorable Mention team in the Tachikara Coaches Poll.

Illinois, off to its best start in the school's history, captured this weekend's Sunkist Invitational in Las Vegas, Nev.

Eastern, 9-1, is also off to its best start in history, topping the 7-3 starts of the 1982 and 1983 seasons.

"I'm hoping that they'll (Illinois) look past us, but he (Illinois coach Mike Hebert) usually gets them up," Eastern coach Betty Ralston said.

Ralston, who earned her 50th career win at Eastern by defeating St. Louis University over the weekend, said the key to the match will be whether the Panthers can contain the middle.

"When I scouted Illinois earlier this season, 75 percent of their hits came out of the middle," Ralston said. "We'll have to have consistency."

Because of Illinois' strength in the middle, Ralston indicated that freshman middle hitter Gianna Galanti would see plenty of action for the Panthers.

"One-on-one she's the best blocker we have," Ralston said. "She has deceptive jumping ability."

Eastern, riding a five-match winning streak, utilizes a balanced attack that is paced by outside hitters Judy Planos, Diane Eiserman and Misty Buckhold, middle hitter Maura LeFevour and setter Jeanne Pacione.

LeFevour leads the Panthers in hitting at .359, while Buckhold ranks second at .301.

Eiserman leads Eastern in kills (109) and service aces (20). Planos is second with 84 kills. Pacione is the team assist leader with 325.

Injured Bears set for Vikes

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP)—Despite injuries, quarterback Jim McMahon and running back Walter Payton of the Chicago Bears are expected to play Thursday night against the Minnesota Vikings.

"Jim should be fine. He had everything checked," Coach Mike Ditka said Monday after the Bears had dispatched New England 20-7 Sunday for their second straight National Football League triumph.

"Walter has some sore ribs, and he's better today than yesterday," Ditka said. "I don't have any doubt about his playing, but he might not play full time."

McMahon and Payton were taken out of Sunday's game in the fourth quarter. McMahon complained of back spasms and a sore neck, and Payton suffered bruised ribs early in the first quarter.

McMahon was placed in traction Sunday night and remained in the hospital Monday.

One of the reasons Ditka didn't seem too concerned about McMahon's condition is that the quarterback, who missed the last six games in 1984 with a lacerated kidney, originally complained about it the previous week.

"He was OK Wednesday but came up with a sore neck Thursday," Ditka said.

There was some speculation that the condition was caused by helmet-bumping between McMahon and his offensive linemen after touchdowns scored the previous week against Tampa Bay.

"It's just something we started doing," said McMahon, who didn't think the action caused his aches.

"Muscle spasms," said Ditka, "but that helmet bumping thing is a little silly, isn't it?"

Although the injuries are not serious, the situation is compounded by the fact the Bears will get almost no rest because of Thursday night's game in the Minneapolis Metrodome.

Ditka has considered the possibility that McMahon and Payton may not be able to play. They will be backed by quarterback Steve Fuller and running back Thomas Sanders because Dennis Gentry, Payton's first replacement, has a sore ankle.

"Fuller will go if Jim can't play," Ditka said. "We've won with Steve before. We have 45 guys, and I believe in every one of them. There are no problems. If I had any problems with them, they wouldn't be here."

Sanders, a hard-running rookie out of Texas A&M, has had trouble hanging onto the ball.

"If Sanders has to play, he'll get a real baptism under fire," Ditka said.

"Everybody outgains the Vikings, but they've won both of their games," Ditka said. "The name of their game is turnovers. They teach it; they coach it. They've given the ball up only three times, but they've taken it away from their opponents 12 times. That comes to a plus nine."

Eastern soccer player Craig Hartman intercepts a pass in Saturday's 2-0 win over AMCU opponent Wisconsin-Green Bay at Lakeside Field.

The booters are off to a 1-0 start in conference play.

Booters off to quick start in AMCU

Mosnia cautious of forthcoming contests

By DOBIE HOLLAND
Staff writer

One of Eastern soccer coach Cizo Mosnia's foremost goals is to win the Association of Mid-Continent Universities Conference title this season. But there is still quite a ways to go and tough contests ahead, he cautions.

The soccer Panthers' 2-0 victory over conference rival Wisconsin-Green Bay last Saturday gave them a good start in the right direction in attaining that goal.

Eastern now holds a 3-0-1 overall record and a 1-0 conference post, which places them on top of the AMCU.

The booters "played a more improved game" at home against the Phoenix, Mosnia said. "It was a conference game, so we put a lot of emphasis on this one."

"Beating Green Bay is a morale booster, because they have always been up there (in the AMCU rankings)," Mosnia said.

The next conference team Eastern is scheduled to play is defending champion Cleveland State on Oct. 12 at Lakeside Field.

Presently, Cleveland State shows a 3-3 record, but 0-0 in the conference. Last Saturday, the Vikings toppled Big Ten power Wisconsin-Madison, the same team Green Bay defeated last Wednesday before falling to the Panthers.

Mosnia said Cleveland State's victory over a team that Green Bay defeated combined with Eastern's win over the Phoenix is probably the only way to compare the two teams which should strongly contend for the title. But Mosnia pointed out that the comparison is rather weak.

The Vikings are minus Anthony Bailey, their leading scorer from last season. Bailey had used up his four years of eligibility by playing one of those seasons in Bermuda, so he was not allowed to play this season on a ruling by the NCAA.

Viking Coach Brian Doyle was not aware of this ruling until two days before the regular season.

Western Illinois will also challenge for the conference crown and may face the Panthers at a tournament for the Governor's Cup Oct. 5 at Lakeside Field. If the two do not face each other a conference winner will not be determined.

"We will probably add Western to the schedule if that happens," Mosnia said.

Defense rejoins Panthers with a new personality

Anyone who stumbled into O'Brien Stadium after kickoff Saturday probably thought they were reading the scoreboard backwards.

It wasn't because they tailgated too long. The new policy on pre-game festivities has made tailgating at Eastern a forbidden act, and for all intents and purposes, extinct.

Nor was the latecomer's surprise attributed to the 24 points the Panthers had scored in the first half against Indiana State, a I-AA football power which normally boasts a top ten ranking.

The real shocker was that the Sycamores had a round goose-egg shape in their point column.

Recent history leaves no defense for Eastern's attempts at stopping the opposition. For over a year, the resistance provided by Eastern's defense was a lot like the huge walls of Foamy shaving cream you see in the TV commercials.

Eastern's defense, come right down to it, had been broken so many times it didn't even bend anymore.

And that makes Saturday's scalping of the Sycamores even more perplexing. A defense which was more comparable to a brick of swiss cheese the week before even looked somewhat exotic in its manhandling of one of I-AA's best on Saturday.

True, the breaks came from every which way for Eastern, but no stress fractures could be seen defensively. Apparently, somebody had taken a caulk gun to Eastern's defensive cracks and it dried rock hard.

So motivated was this defense that it even tried to play offense by scoring 16 points.

Psychologists would classify the behavior of Eastern's defense from the first game to the second as a split personality.

A week earlier, the Panthers gave up 31 points in three quarters to a lowly Division II team. Less than a week later, the Panthers' deepest penetration allowed to Indiana State in the first three quarters was to the Eastern 34.

All this turnaround does is leave even the most knowledgeable observers groping for answers to the unpredictable mystery this 1985 squad has become.

Because Saturday's victory came so easy, its full impact hasn't hit yet. Neither has the magnitude of the gut-wrenching loss to Northeast Missouri.

When asked which team to expect for the remainder of the season, coach Al Molde can't say. But maybe the hard lesson learned at NEMO which was corrected with Saturday's win has given the Panthers their coveted winning formula.

"Just goes to show you've got to come ready to play every week or anyone on your schedule can beat you," Molde emphasized.

The bandage will stay on the Panthers' toe they stubbed at NEMO. Then again, the prestige of beating a perennial powerhouse will remain.

What, then, will pollsters think when they see that the Panthers faced complete destruction at the hands of a mediocre Division II team before closing the gap to a less-horrifying 31-24 margin, then totally blew away a championship-caliber team like Indiana State by 32 points? It's a complex equation.

The Panthers know their capabilities. What's left is for them to prove their talents on a regular basis and give notice to the 9,665 fans at O'Brien Stadium that Saturday's heroics were no fluke.

Chapter Three of this mystery-thriller season unfolds Saturday at home against Saginaw Valley, an NAIA team relatively unknown to Eastern.

The Panthers can't afford to stub another toe, so it's a good bet they won't be turning ahead any chapters.

Cardinals sweep Bucs, boost lead

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Willie McGee singled home Vince Coleman with the go-ahead run in the eighth inning to help the first-place St. Louis Cardinals capture a 3-1 victory and a doubleheader sweep of the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday.

In the first game, John Taylor won for the 18th time in his last 19 decisions as the Cardinals took advantage of seven Pittsburgh errors for an 8-4 victory.

The sweep put the Cardinals, winners of five straight games, 1½ games ahead of the New York Mets in the National League East. The Mets played the Philadelphia Phillies in New York Monday night.

With the score tied 1-1 in the second game, Coleman led off the eighth with a double off Pat Clements, 0-2, and scored when McGee punched a single through the right side. Terry Pendleton's RBI single, his third hit of the game, gave the Cardinals an insurance run.

Pat Perry, 1-0, earned his first major-league win by retiring R.J. Reynolds on a fly ball with the bases loaded in the seventh and then pitching two more hitless innings.

Andy Van Slyke, Pendleton and Tom Herr each drove in two runs in the opener to back Tudor, 19-8. The loss was the 10th straight for Pittsburgh starter Jose DeLeon, 2-18. Tudor's streak of 31 scoreless innings ended with Bill Almon's fourth-inning grand slam.
